Relationships, Friendship & Identity:

Friends or Feelings?

Think about the difference between friendship and romance. Who really matters most in your life right now, and why? Do strong friendships sometimes mean more than crushes? Explain your view.

The Awkward Moment

Write about a moment that goes awkward very quickly. It might involve a crush, a misunderstanding, or pure embarrassment. Describe what happens and how you feel in that moment. How does the situation end?

Invisible in a Crowd

Imagine being surrounded by people but still feeling completely invisible. Describe where you are and what everyone else is doing. What thoughts are running through your mind? Why does this moment matter?

Small Kindness, Big Impact

Write about a small act of kindness that makes a big difference. It could be something you give, say, or choose not to do. Describe the moment and its impact. Why did this action matter?

Knowing Your Worth

What does self-respect really mean to you? Think about a time when you stood up for yourself or wish you had. Describe the situation and what you learned from it. How did it change the way you see yourself?

Do We Have to Care?

Not everyone likes Valentine's Day. Describe what it feels like to be surrounded by hearts, cards, and expectations when you don't care. Why do you think so much pressure exists? Share your honest opinion.

The Thought That Counts...

You receive a Valentine's gift that doesn't seem to mean what you expected. Describe the gift and how it makes you feel. Why does it matter more, or less, than you thought it would? What do you learn from this moment?

The Secret Admirer

You receive a message from a secret admirer. At first it feels exciting, but then it becomes confusing. Describe the message and your reaction. How does the situation change by the end?

Safer Internet Day

Sent by Mistake

A message is sent that should never have been shared. Describe what the message says and how it ends up in the wrong place. How do people react? What are the consequences?

Words Hit Harder Online

Online words can feel stronger than words spoken out loud. Write about a moment when something said online had a big impact. Why do you think it felt more powerful? What does this teach us about digital communication?

Screens or Real Life?

Think about how much time people spend on screens compared to real life. Do screens help us connect, or do they get in the way? Share your opinion and give a reason for it. Where do you draw the line?

Doesn't Feel Right

You come across something online that makes you feel uncomfortable or unsafe. Describe what you notice and how you feel. What choices do you make next? Why is this moment important?

Black History Month

Still Standing

Write a story inspired by resilience or courage. Your character faces a challenge that feels overwhelming at first. Describe what helps them keep going. Why does their strength matter?

Who Decides?

Some people think schools should teach more Black history, while others think the curriculum is already full. What do you think? Should Black History Month topics be taught all year or only in February? Explain your opinion with clear reasons.

Proving Them Wrong

Write about a character who is underestimated by others. Describe how this makes them feel and what motivates them to push back. What moment shows that others were wrong? How does this change the way they are seen?

Learning from the Past

Some people believe learning about difficult history helps us build a better future. Others feel it can be uncomfortable or divisive. What is your opinion? Should schools teach challenging historical topics, and why?

More February Celebrations...

Groundhog Day Again

You wake up and realise you are living the same day over and over again. At first it feels funny, but soon it becomes frustrating. Describe what stays the same and what you try to change. What finally makes this day different?

Big Game Sunday

Not everyone watches the 'big game' for the game. What do you think is the best part of Big Game Sunday, and why? Is it about sports, food, ads, or something else entirely? Share your honest opinion.

Stories That Matter

Some stories are told over and over again, while others are forgotten. Why do you think this happens? Should schools and communities work harder to share overlooked stories? Explain your opinion.

What Does Freedom Mean?

The word freedom is used often, but it can mean different things to different people. What does freedom mean to you? Are rules always the opposite of freedom, or can they protect it? Explain your thinking.

Are Counselors Underrated?

February recognises School Counseling Week in the US. Some people think counselors are essential, while others barely notice them. What role do you think school counselors really play? Should schools do more to highlight their work?

The Perfect Slice

Everyone has an opinion about pizza. What do you think makes the perfect slice, and why? Try to convince someone who completely disagrees with you. Should some toppings be banned forever?

Leading for a Day

Imagine you are in charge for one day. What is the first rule you would change or create? Explain what kind of leader you would try to be. How would your decisions affect others?

The Extra Day

You are given one extra day that no one else seems to notice. What do you do with this unexpected time? Describe how it feels to have a second chance. What do you choose to change, or protect?

Pets Over People?

February includes celebrations for pets and pet lovers. Some people say pets are better companions than people. Do you agree or disagree? Should pets be treated like family? Explain your opinion.

Does Art Still Matter?

February is National Arts Month in the US. Some people think art is just for fun, while others believe it is essential to education. Should schools spend more time and money on the arts? Explain your view.
