The Last Run

You are at the top of an icy slope, waiting for your final run in a major winter sports competition. The crowd is quiet and your heart is racing. Describe what you see, hear, and feel before you begin.

The Unexpected Fall

During an important winter sports event, you slip and fall. For a moment, everything feels lost. Describe what goes through your mind. Do you give up or keep going?

Snow Day Showdown

A friendly snow-day competition turns serious when everyone wants to win. Describe the challenge and who takes part. What makes the moment exciting? How does it end?

The Rookie Competitor

You are the newest competitor at a big winter sports event. Everyone else seems more experienced. Describe how you feel and how others treat you. What do you do to prove yourself?

Too Risky?

Some winter sports are exciting but dangerous. Do you think the risk makes them thrilling or unsafe? Should there be stricter safety rules? Explain your opinion.

Judges or Scores?

Some competitions use judges, while others use timers and scores. Which is fairer? Should human judges decide winners in sports? Share your view.

Training or Talent?

Do great athletes succeed because of natural talent or hard training? Which matters more in winter sports? Give reasons for your opinion.

Worth the Cost?

Winter sports can be expensive because of equipment and travel. Do you think these sports should be made more affordable? Should schools offer more access? Explain your thinking.
